About Linfield College: Linfield was established in 1858 and, as one of the oldest schools on the West Coast, is proud of its heritage. Linfield is a four-year, independent, liberal arts and sciences institution. A little over 1,550 enrolled students benefit from a dedicated teaching faculty who share a commitment to quality education. Nestled in the heart of Oregon's Willamette Valley, Linfield's main campus is located in McMinnville, a city with a population of 26,000. McMinnville is only an hour from the magnificent Oregon coast, an hour from the city of Portland and one and a half hours from the majestic Mt. Hood and the Columbia River Gorge. Linfield enjoys a picturesque campus with red brick buildings set on acres of oak trees, evergreens and sprawling lawns. Linfield is recognized for its strong international emphasis with approximately 50 international students from 20 different countries studying on campus. The International Programs office provides study abroad opportunities in eight countries. Each year, up to 80 students participate in the semester program approximately 175 in the four-week January Term.
